Materials Selection/ Collection Development Policy

Connecting people and ideas to educate, inspire and strengthen the Upper Dublin community.
UDPL—We're About You!

SCOPE

The Upper Dublin Public Library selects materials in support of its mission. The emphasis of the collection is on acquiring materials of wide-ranging interest to the general public and offering choice of subjects, perspectives, and formats that meet most library needs within current budget limitations.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR SELECTION

Authority for collection maintenance, including selection and weeding of materials is delegated by the Library Board of Trustees to the Library Director and the Director's designated staff.

SELECTION CRITERIA

The selection of materials is characterized by flexibility, open-mindedness, and responsiveness to the changing needs of the residents of Upper Dublin. Materials are evaluated as complete works and not on the basis of a particular passage or passages. A work will not be excluded from the library's collection solely because it represents a particular aspect of life, because of frankness of expression, or because it is controversial. Parents or guardians are responsible for the reading selections of minors. Selection of materials intended for an adult audience will not be restricted by the possibility that these materials may come into the possession of minors. The selection of an item is not meant to express or imply an endorsement of the author's work or viewpoint.

All acquisitions, whether purchased or donated, are evaluated by the following standards and in accordance with guidelines stated by the American Library Association in its Library Bill of Rights, Freedom to Read and Freedom to View statements. An item need not meet all of the criteria to be acceptable, nor will any single criterion be decisive. Neither the order of the general criteria nor the order of items in a list of specific criteria indicates relative importance.

Selection may be based upon:

- a title's present and potential relevance to community needs.
- a title's importance as a document of the times.
- a title's format and its appropriateness and effectiveness to content.
- the reputation and/or significance of author, publisher or producer.
- a positive review in one or more appropriate professional journals.
- positive critics' and staff members' reviews.
- a title's relationship to existing materials in the collection.
- budgetary limitations.
- a title's lack of availability or easy accessibility from other lending sources.

- lack of sufficient and current materials available on the same subject.
- the author, illustrator or subject residing locally.
- whether a title's format is appropriate to library use and is not easily damaged.
- a title's enhancement of a specific collection within the library.
- the author or producer being already represented in the collection.
- the title's literary and artistic merit.
- the accuracy of content.
- popularity with library users, current literary trends, or publisher predictions.
- a request made by a library user.
- the material's ability to support the Upper Dublin School District curriculum.

MATERIAL CLASSIFICATIONS

The library maintains the following material classifications: fiction, mystery, science fiction, nonfiction (Dewey 000-999), biographies, reference, paperbacks, large print, local history, periodicals, audiobooks, music, films and educational DVDs, and graphic novels. Picture books, easy readers, series, parent/teacher, and holiday books are specific children's classifications. Materials are classified based on literary reviews and popularity with a particular audience. Placement in the children, teen, or adult collections is done to make user selection easier, and is generally based on content and the age of the protagonist, not reading level. Fiction and nonfiction books for adults purchased (not published) within the last six months are classified as NEW and can be found in the New Books collection.

EDUCATIONAL MATERIALS

While the library does not house textbooks, with guidance from Upper Dublin educators, the library selects materials to support the Upper Dublin Township curriculum. Although the focus is on the public education system, library staff will attempt to assist local private/parochial schools when: (1) notified of upcoming assignments, (2) budget permits, and (3) purchases are generally deemed to be of value to the collection. For those in need of specialized or academic resources that are beyond the scope of the collection, users are encouraged to use interlibrary loan to obtain materials from other libraries or to visit the Montgomery County District Library or local community colleges/universities.

NONPRINT FORMATS

The library recognizes the place of nonprint formats in the collection as legitimate educational and recreational resources for the community it serves. To maintain a modern and useful collection, the library monitors the development of new formats and, within budgetary and technical limitations, adds these to the collection. Examples of nonprint formats include: CDs, DVDs, CD ROMs, MP3s, video games, websites, eBooks and electronic databases.

MULTIPLE COPIES

The library will purchase multiple copies of titles that have high public demand or are anticipated to have high demand because of author popularity or publisher predictions. When deemed appropriate and budget permits, extra copies will be purchased if there are 10 or more requests for a given title.

STANDING ORDERS

To ensure new editions of regularly updated titles quickly get added to the collection, some titles will be placed on standing order with publishers or book suppliers without prior evaluation. The majority of these are reference materials, but travel books, college guides, test review books, and other annual series are also put on continuation for the circulating collection. In some cases, collections like large print and audiobooks are supplemented with standing order plans to ensure ready availability of new titles.

Librarians will periodically reevaluate standing orders and automatic continuation titles. Titles may be cancelled, new titles added, or the number of copies adjusted to accommodate community interest and demand. Some titles will be moved to the circulating collection when a new edition arrives.

TRIBUTE & MEMORIAL GIFTS

Monetary gifts can be made to the collection to honor a family member or friend. Donors may request that a gift be purchased from within a subject area, but title selections will be made by staff in accordance with the Materials Selection/Collection Development Policy and based on need. The gift will have a bookplate acknowledging the honoree and acknowledgement letters will be sent per the donor's request. Tribute & Memorial gifts will be evaluated as part of the library collection, and may be withdrawn if at some point deemed appropriate according to the library's weeding guidelines.

DONATIONS (for more, see the Library's Gift/Donation Policy)

The Upper Dublin Public Library welcomes and encourages gifts and donations, which are consistent with the Library's mission.

The Friends of the Upper Dublin Public Library gratefully accepts gently used donations of hardback books, paperbacks, children's books, and puzzles, which are then sold in support of library program funding. Donations are accepted in portable containers (bags, boxes, etc.) at the 1st floor friends-shop. Donations should not be put in the book drop or left in front of the building. Donors may ask for a letter acknowledging the donation. However, library staff cannot appraise the items or indicate a value in the acknowledgment letter. Time permitting, library staff will review donations and consider adding them to the collection in accordance with the Materials Selection/Collection Development Policy. The Friends and library staff reserve the right to sell or otherwise dispose of donations not added to the collection.

Due to the lack of storage space and the difficulty of resale of some materials, not all donations are acceptable. We cannot accept:

- damaged books, including damaged spines, water damage, torn covers or pages, highlighted material, books written in or marked on (except signed or inscribed)
- encyclopedias
- reference books
- computer books/manuals more than 2 years old
- magazines, including National Geographic and American Heritage
- Reader's Digest Condensed Books
- textbooks
- bulk packs or other bound study materials
- vinyl records
- videocassettes
- audiobooks or music on cassette tapes or CD

- DVDs

We urge donors to observe these guidelines because unacceptable materials must be discarded at library expense. Occasionally, staff find personal items in donated books [examples: bookmarks, photographs, news clippings]. By the time the items are discovered, staff is unable to tell who made the donation. Photographs are usually saved for a reasonable amount of time in hopes that the owner may come to claim them. Most other items will be discarded immediately.

For other types of donations, see the Library's Gift/Donation Policy.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN

Items not held in the library's collection may be available to Upper Dublin residents through Interlibrary Loan. Requests made by nonresidents will be handled at the discretion of designated staff. Users may search for and request most titles available through the library's participation in the Montgomery County Library & Information Network Consortium (MCLINC) and the Access Pennsylvania Database, a statewide union catalog available through Power Library. Materials also may be borrowed by Upper Dublin Public Library from outside the state through Montgomery County District Library.

Interlibrary loan requests are processed by a designated staff member. Titles that have been published within the last six months or that may be valuable to the collection will be considered for purchase. In return, the library will lend most of its materials through the same interlibrary loan networks, except special collections with limited titles, rare or fragile materials, and reference works. Titles marked as NEW may be loaned through the district, but not through Access Pennsylvania. Library staff reserves the right to not loan other materials. Most items can be borrowed without charge, but occasionally the lending library will charge a fee. Users will be notified of any fees before items are sent. Loan periods and renewal options are determined by the lending library.

BINDERY GUIDELINES

To keep the library collection looking fresh and healthy, most books in poor condition that are still considered of value will be replaced with a new copy. Rebinding is reserved for classic or valuable titles that are out of print or hard to find, that come from a set that is in otherwise good condition, or that are expensive to replace. If such books cannot be repaired or rebound, they will be withdrawn from the library collection.

WEEDING

The library maintains an up-to-date and currently useful collection through continuous evaluation. When materials are determined to no longer be of value to the collection, they are withdrawn. Materials may be withdrawn if they are worn, obsolete or out of date, if they are little used, if a new edition has been purchased, if multiple copies are no longer needed, if a format has been replaced by something newer, or to make room for more materials. The library does not attempt to protect or preserve old editions, except in rare cases when an item is deemed to be of local interest.

While the decision to remove an item from the collection is highly subjective, several tools are used to ensure consistency wherever possible, including an adopted weeding schedule, circulation statistical reports, and guides to highly recommended titles for library collections.

Withdrawn materials that are still in good condition will be donated to the Friends of the Library to be sold in their book sale. Materials withdrawn from the reference collection that still contain valuable information may be transferred to the circulating collection.

RECONSIDERATION OF LIBRARY MATERIALS

Questions about items in the collection will be directed to the librarian in charge of the collection in which the item in question is located or another librarian.

If the individual still desires to question the appropriateness of the item, he/she is required to put his/her request in writing by completing and signing the form entitled "Request for Reconsideration of Library Materials" (available at the library service desks) and submit it to the Library Director. An integral part of the library's Materials Selection/Collection Development Policy is that materials are evaluated as complete works and not on the basis of a particular passage or passages. Therefore, only those requests in which the initiator has read/listened/viewed the ENTIRE work will be considered.

Upon receipt, the Library Director will appoint an ad hoc committee of library staff including, but not limited to, the director and the librarian responsible for the collection in which the item in question is located. Referring to the library's Materials Selection/Collection Development Policy, the committee will review the request and make a decision. The Director will communicate the committee's decision in writing to the person who initiated the request and to the Library Board of Directors.

In the event that the person who initiated the request is not satisfied with the committee's decision, he/she may request a hearing before the Library Board of Directors at their regularly scheduled meeting by making a written request to the President of the Board. The Board reserves the right to limit the length of the presentation and number of speakers. The Board will determine whether the request for reconsideration has been handled in accordance with the Library's stated policies and procedures. On this basis, the Board will vote to uphold or override the decision of the Director.
